SEASON 10 – 2006-2007235. Follow that Flour

Jealous that James gets to collect flour for the cakes for a children's party, Thomas bumps James's rail car and the flour spills out, forcing Thomas to find a replacement car.

236. A Smooth Ride

Really Useful Engine Sir Handel, who has been away, returns and is assigned the job of transporting apples, but he immediately begins to have trouble traveling up hill, and seeks help from Peter Sam -- help he is reluctant to admit needing.

237. Thomas & the Jet Plane

Thomas feels that Jeremy the Jet Plane is too boastful to bother with until Jeremy helps him and his load of children, en route to the Sodor Summer Picnic, avert a brewing storm.

238. Percy & the Funfair

Percy would much rather be helping out as an attraction at the carnival than mundanely pulling a load of coal. He decides to join his friends at the expense of his duties, and learns an important lesson about responsibility.

239. The Green Controller

Percy, entrusted to hand out the work assignments to the other engines, refuses Thomas's help in doing so and ends up giving his friends seriously wrong instructions.

240. Duncan Drops a Clanger

While transporting the clock tower bell, Duncan becomes so enamored of its sound that he forgets the foreman's advice to travel slowly. He only recalls it after the bell has flown off the flatbed and becomes stuck in a tree.

241. Thomas's Tricky Tree

Thomas is assigned to pick up a Christmas tree, but his friends tease him, saying he does not know what one looks like. Peeved, Thomas sets off to prove them wrong, but in his haste and anger he only proves them right.

242. Toby's Afternoon Off

Busy Toby juggles three assignments to try and finish in time in order to take the afternoon off to visit the farmyard. He thinks his plan has worked, but it is not quite as successful as he had hoped.

243. It's Good To Be Gordon

Hoping to break his Express record, Gordon stays silent when he accidentally receives Henry's special coal instead of his own regular coal. While Gordon relishes the extra power, he learns that Henry can no longer function with regular coal, and trades back at the expense of his record.

244. Seeing the Sights

In trying to be as speedy as Gordon, Thomas races through his station stops, leaving his passengers behind. It is up to Bertie the Bus to come to their transportation rescue.

245. Fearless Freddie

Fearless Freddie, the Warhorse Engine, challenges his brothers Skarloey and Rhenas to a series of races, but cheats each time via shortcuts. Desperate to beat him, Rhenas ends up running off the rails, which means the boastful Freddie must help him back on.

246. Toby's New Shed

Thomas wants to be helpful by putting a new roof on top of Toby's leaking shed, not realizing the extent of -- or reason for -- Toby's attachment to his old roof.

247. Big Strong Henry

Henry is upset that Gordon has been assigned to haul a farmer's goods. When the other engines insist that "Big Strong Henry" can do just as well, only one of them is nervous about Henry's chances: Henry himself.

248. Sticky Toffee Thomas

Thomas's attempts wearing a costume for a children's fancy dress party meet with Disaster ... at least for a while.

249. Which Way Now?

Engine Rusty is transporting workmen around to various locations so they can paint directional signs, but he is rushing them as fast as he can. This turns out badly when several people -- including Sir Topham Hatt and his family -- get lost because of the faulty signs.

250. Thomas & the Shooting Star

Because he wants to see a shooting star high over head, Thomas takes his passengers only down rail lines where his view of the sky will not be blocked. But this puts the travelers far out of their way.

251. Edward Strikes Out

Edward is dismissive of a new rail crane named Rocky because Rocky has no engine of his own. But he quickly changes his attitude when Rocky's strength becomes necessary to rescue the derailed Gordon.

252. Topped Off Thomas

Having challenged Spencer the Streamliner to a race, Thomas whizzes through a station so fast that he blows off Sir Topham Hatt's top hat -- and he has a terrible time attempting to retrieve it.

253. Wharf & Peace

When James calls Skarloey a "scaredy engine" because Skarloey hates the noisy, busy Wharf, Skarloey begins to wonder if James is right. But three acts of bravery involving other engines that day convinces him James is not.

254. Thomas's Frosty Friend

Thomas does not believe it when people try to tell him that a giant balloon in the shape of a snowman has affixed itself to him.

255. Emily & the Special Coaches

Finally having beaten the Express record, Gordon is about to be rewarded with a set of special coaches ... but envious Diesel hides them first.

256. Thomas & the Colours

James has the honor of pulling the Sodor School Football Team train, and because of that is bedecked with flags and bunting. Jealous Thomas tricks him into taking a disused line, knowing that the decorations will be ruined in transit. Thomas has to work hard to make up for his bad deed.

257. Thomas & the Birthday Mail

While delivering birthday mail, Thomas encounters Rosie, a young tank engine who idolizes him. Annoyed by her, he tries to lose her, but when he becomes trapped in a landslide, she is the only person to whom he can turn to help.

258. Duncan's Bluff

Duncan challenges James to a race to deliver coal to a far away village, though Duncan is not plan on competing honestly.

259. Missing Trucks

Rheneas helps out his brother Skarloey by pulling his load for him in addition to his own. When it proves to be too heavy, Rheneas disengages Skarloey's load and parks it, then delivers his own. But upon returning, the car has disappeared.

260. Thomas & the Treasure

Caught up in a yarn about pirate's treasure being spun by Salty, Thomas forgets to transport an admiral to the opening of a Maritime Museum, requiring Harold the Helicopter to step in. But Thomas still has treasure fever.

261. James the Second Best

Jealous that Edward is about to become a railway poster boy instead of him, James sets about to convince Sir Topham Hatt that it should be him getting the honor.

262. Thomas & Skarloey's Big Day Out

Thomas is transporting Skarloey to the workshop so he can get needed repairs. But he can't remember what Sir Topham told him about making sure to check the coupling of the flatbed and that leads to trouble.

263. A Visit From Thomas

The construction machines known as “The Pack” -- Jack, Patrick, Alfie, Byron, Kelly, Nelson, Oliver, Isabella, Max and Monty among them -- are excavating for a new school, and make an amazing discovery buried in the ground.

264. Jack Owns Up

Jack is faced with a dilemma: does he confess that it was he who knocked over a stack of roof tiles that Ned ended up running over? Or does he stay silent and allow Ned to take the punishment for the carelessness?

265. On Site With Thomas

An argument over which one of the Pack has the most important job on a construction site leads to near disaster.

266. Percy’s Scary Tale

On Halloween, Kelly the crane tells a scary story about a one-eyed truck. Percy and some of the Pack are frightened, but others don’t believe it.

267. Kelly’s Windy Day

Thomas transports Kelly to a site where Kelly is toppled over by high winds. This leaves the crane shaken and wondering if he has the courage to rescue Isabella the Truck when she gets in trouble.

268. A Happy Day for Percy

Max and Monty’s clowning around on a construction site results in the water supply being spilled, creating a true quagmire that Alfie begins to sink into.

269. A Tale For Thomas

The Pack try to rescue a rare, ancient tree which has been struck by lightning.

270. Thomas & the Moles

Buster the Bulldozer is feeling left out while his fellow Pack members work to repair storm damage. His disappointment, however, is abated when he is asked to flatten out a football field that has been rutted by moles.

271. Percy Helps Out

Nelson carries Thomas to the workshop for repairs, but before they get there, he requires some help himself.

272. The Tortoise & the Hare

Buster the Bulldozer dreams of being the fastest of the Pack, even though he is clearly not. Still, he managed to win a race against his much speedier friends in the manner of the old fable of the title.

273. Thomas's Trusty Friends

Ned the steam shovel is feeling depressed and unimportant on a demolition site, until his unique abilities are called upon to knock down a wall.

274. Alfie Has Kittens

Having been teased for being small, Alfie proves his mettle after finding a mother cat and her kittens on a construction site.

275. Mud, Glorious Mud

Vain Isabella finds she has to travel through a mud-filled field -- her least favorite thing to do -- in order to obtain fuel for the other Pack members.
